It took five months for the French-Malaysian concept florist to come to fruition, under Jimmy's supervision. The brand's packaging takes a retro yet minimalistic approach, conveying a straightforward appreciation of flora and environment.

The market demand in the area, the target age group, and the layout of the store in relation to daylight and other environmental requirements for the plants were taken into close consideration while working closely with the business partner. Jimmy handled everything from the brand logo to social media setups, photography, visual merchandising, and store design.
